GENERAL TAX UPON PROPERTY.

A T a General Meeting of the Commillioners of the Land-tax for the Stewartry,
WALTER SLOAN LAWRIE, Efq. of Redcaltle, Prefes,
The following Resolutions were moved by Mr Copland of Calli ston.

WALTER SLOAN LAWRIE, Efq. of Redcaftle, Prefes, The following Refolutions were moved by Mr Copland of Colli flon.

Imo, That it is the opinion of the Meeting, That where the property of every individual, high or low, lanced, manufacturing, or meteantile, is equally protected and fecured, by a Government legally established, it is just and proper, that every individual should also equally contribute to the support, of that, Government legally established, it is just and proper, that every individual should also equally contribute to the support, of that, Government, in exact proportion of the property to protected: That therefore all our present taxes, which are difficult and expensive to leve, too easily evaded, and no longer sufficiently productive, should be laid adde, unless perhaps some small customs at our ports on the importation of our own, and protection of our commerce:—and, in piace thereof, one general tax of a certain propertion should be afferfied and levied upon all property of whatever kind, money lent of lodged in the public funds not excepted, as no property depends so much upon public protection, and other taxes on luxury and consumption ceasing on the produce of that property, would go a greater length:—That such affestiment should be made by Committees of the Commissioners of Supply to landward, to be approven of by a General Meeting, and libile to objection from any person paying tax, or from the public prosecutor, and also from the person affessed, who may appeal, and give in a state-of his free sunds or property, which, if allowed by the General Meeting, he must support with his oath; but under the penalty of death for conscious fraudilest perjury.—Similar affessioners are, or even in the mode at present established.

2do, That such a tax would be easily levied, might be made productive to any degree, and particularly might pay within the year the whole expence of Government in carrying on a mode at present established.

2 do, That such a tax would be easily levied, might be made productive to any degree, and particularly might pay within the year the whole expence of Government in carrying on a just and necessary war, for defence of all property, the avowed object of our cruel and inveterate enemy; and, as this tax would not be evaded, it would compel to come forward, and pay their just proportion of the genefal defence, such (and it is notorious that such there are) as from want of good will, not want of means, hang back and decline to aid Government by voluntary contributions.

3tio, That an objection formerly made to such a tax, "That it might discover circumsunces, and burt private credit," deferves the less attention now, when two of the most considerable manufacturing towns (Leeds, and it is believed Sheffield) have declared to Government their with for such a tax, which they could not consider injurious to any fair dealer: That, if it laid open the conduct of persons trafficking on other peoples funds, the Meeting think it would do public service, as such persons often run in debt, by expensive living, to support false appearances; and, if they chuse to pay over affeliments rather than divulge their real situation, the Public would profit by their oftentations outlays.

4to, That the Meeting think this will more effectually sid Government than the proposed fale of land tax, from which they force no other effect than the rolling the burden of the invest of the public debt from other taxes entirely upon land-interest of the public debt from other taxes entirely apon landed property, by a permanent tax at its highest establishment being nailed down on them who, paying all other taxes equally with other subjects, are in this respect overloaded alreadys. The Meeting not having time to discuss Mr Copland's motion, described entering upon the same until the Adjourned Meeting in July next; but, in the mean time, directed a copy of the motion to be published in the Dumfries news paper.

Sigued, JAMES NIVEN Clerk.

Signed, JAMES NIVEN Clerk.

Tho fome parts of the foregoing motion may feem prejudged by the act of Parliament for felling the land tax, yet that and a general tax upon property are fill objects of most ferious consideration to every landholder, and may be revised in Parliament,—therefore such proprietors of lands in the stewartry as may not have observed the advertisement in the Dumfries Paper are hereby solicited to attend the Adjourned General When other matters interesting to the Public, particularly this execution of the new turnpike act, are to be laid before them.

ROSS-SHIRE ASSESSED TAXES. THE COLLECTOR of SUPPLY for the County of Rofs, gives notice, That he is to Collect the ASSESSED TAXES under the Aid and Contribution Act, at Dingwall on Monday the 6th day of August, at Fortrofe the 8th, and at Tain the 10th days of faid month, when it is necessary that the three installments then due be paid up. It is expected that such as are in areas of Cesa and other Taxes, will pay them up at same time to prevent further troe le to themselves.

Extract of a Letter from Vice-Admiral Vanderut, Communder in Chief of his Majelty's thips and veffels at Halifax, to Evan Nersan, Efg. dated on board the Afia, Halifax harbour, Inne 23: 1798.

On the 15th of April, I put to fea with the squadron, and proceeded to the S. E. as far as latitude 29 days 20 min and language for the control of the angle of the control o dey. 30 min, and longitude 76 deg.; on the 22d we fell in with L'Amiable Juana, a Spanish privateer of fix guns and 46 men, which was captured by the Hind, and was fent to Halifax. On the 27th we fell in with, and, after a chace of fifteen hours, the Resolution captured a schooner French privateer from Curacoa, of four guns and 35 men; this privateer had fome time before taken an American vessel belonging to Baltimore. On the 15th of May, with the Topaze and Hind in company, having gotten intelligence that three privateers were cruizing off Charlestown, I ordered tain Larcom to go in fearch of them, and theo, with the Topaze, I proceeded towards this port, where we arrived on the 28th ultimo. On the 7th instant arrived a French schooner privateer called the Revenge, of 14 guns and 84 men, a prize to the Thetis, who took her in latitude 38. longitude 72; she had not taken any thing. On the day following came in the Thetis and Rover, the former from a cruize, in which the had taken a French privateer of fix guns, which was fent to New Providence. The Rover, on her paffage towards Bermuda, on the 17th of May, cap-tured and fent in a French floop privateer of 14 guns and 57 men; the was last from Porto Rico, and had three American thips, as per margin

The included copies of letters will inform their Lordhips of the taking of La Seine, and the lofs of his Majelty's thip La Pique. On both these events I can add nothing more than to express my satisfaction on this important capture, and real concern for the accidents that have attended it. Captain Milne, with all his officers and people, are on board La Seine. BRIDPORT.

I am. &c. Jason, Pertius Breton, July 2, 1798.

MY LORD, On Friday last, at feven A. M. his Majesty's squa dron under my command, confifting of the ships named in the margin , gave chace to a French frigate off the Saintes, at eleven at night; the Pique brought her to action, and continued a running fight, till the Jason passed between the two. At this instant the land near the Point de la Trenche was feen close on our lar-board bow, and before the ship could answer her helm, board bow, and before the imp could aniwer her heirs, the took the ground clofe to the enemy, which we immediately perceived had grounded alfo. Most unfortunately, as the tide rose, we hung only forwards, and therefore swung with our stern close to the enemy's broadside, who, although he was dismasted, did not fail to take advantage of his happy position; but a welldirected fire was kept up from a few guns abaft, and at half past two she struck. Our opponent, called La Seine, was commanded by Le Capitaine Brejot, her force 42 guns, eighteen and nine pounders, with cannonades, and 610 men, including troops; she failed from L'Isle de France three months ago, bound to In the early part of the battle, I had the mortification to be wounded, and was obliged to leave the deck; but my misfortune is palliated by the reflection that the fervice did not fuffer by my absence, for no man could have filled my place with more credit to himself, and benefit to the state, than my First Lieutenant Mr Charles Inglis, whom I beg to recommend in the frongest man-ner for his bravery, skill, and great exertions.

I come now, my Lord, to the painful part of my marrative, which I am necessitated to make more pro-lix than I otherwise should, from the peculiar circumflances attending the engagement; and first I mention the loss of the Pique, whose officers and crew deserved a better fate. Captain Milne had led her to the fight in an officer like manner, but it was his misfortune, that the main-top mast being carried away, he was obliged to drop a-stern. Ardour urging him on to renew the combat, he did not hear me hail him to anchor, and the thip therefore grounded on our off-fide, near enough to receive the enemy's shot over us, although very auk wardly situated for returning the fire. In the morning every attempt was made to get the ships off, but the Ja fon was alone successful. I therefore, on finding the Pique was bilged, directed the Captain to destroy her d to exert his abilities and activity to fave the prize which he, with great difficulty, got affoat yesterday e vening, after throwing her guns, &c. overboard.

The carnage on board La Seine was very great of them mortally. I inclose a list of the sufferers on board the Jason; and it is with great concern that a mong the killed I place the name of Mr An Robotier, my Second Lieutenant, who died fighting gloriously, and by whose fall is lost a most amiable man and excellent officer. Lieutenant Riboleau commanded on the main deck afterwards, and behaved with great spirit, as did Mr Lockwood, the Master, and Lieut. Symes of the marines; my other officers of every description behaved vality well, and the bravery and excellent conduct of the crew deferve much praise.

The Pique was exceedingly shattered in her rigging, and the Jason has not one mast or yard but what is much damaged, nor a shroud or rope but what is cut, with all the fails torn to pieces. If our ship could have remained in her first position, or our companion could have occupied the fituation he wished, the business must have been former finished, without so much injury being

It is but justice to observe that every effort was made on board the Mermaid, during our long chace, to approach the enemy, and I feel much indebted to Captain Newman for heaving this ship off, as that was the only possible means to fave her. So soon as we were assoat, the fquadron under Capt. Stopford was feen in the offing, and being called in by fignal, was of infinite fervice. I have the honour to be, &c. CHA. STIRLING.

My Lord, It is with real concern I have to inform your Lord-command, on the night of the 30th ult. in action with the French frigate La Seine, by running on shore in the Passage Breton, where, at low water, she was entirely bulged. For the transactions of that day I leave your Lordship to Capt. Stirling's dispatches, but must take the liberty of mentioning the entire fatisfaction I had from the fleady and cool behaviour of the officers and men I had the honour to command; particularly Mr Lee, First Lieutenant ; 'Mr Devonshire, Second and Mr Watson, acting Third; and Lieut. M'Donald of the marines; as likewise Mr Edween, the gunner, whose conduct in his department deserves my warmest

It is some small satisfaction to me, my Lord, for the lofs of his Majesty's ship, that the prize was got off by the affiftance given from the St Fiorenzo; and her be ing a very strong and nearly new ship, she does not apexcept from thot, as the makes very little water.

NAUTICAL INTELLIGENCE.

La Seine is one of the finest vessels of her class ever built, although much shattered by the action. All her masts were shot away, as also her rudder. To the masts were shot away, as also her rudder. frumps of the former jury masts were fastened; and the English slag is suspended over the Republican colours from a temporary enlign staff. The face of the figure head of La Pique is nailed over the figure head (a woman) of the prize, and makes a strange appearar La Seine has 15 ports at a fide on her gun-deck. Her Captain, who behaved most gallantly, folicited and obtained leave to go on fhore in France, and returned ounctual to the time of his parole. He is faid to have killed twenty of his men, and wounded feveral others, who would not stand to their guns. La Seine is re ported to have treasure on board to a very considerable amount. The action was fought so close to the shore, that several of the Frechmen escaped to the coast, which was crowded with spectators.

The occasion of the very great carnage was owing principally to her having to many troops in her, who had been fent home for disaffection to government. Two other frigates are also on their passage from the Mauritius, owing to the same cause, which may probably share the fate of La Seine; for, to the credit of the Admiralty, in disposing of our fleets, and to the vigilance and enthusiastic bravery of our officers and sea men, in executing their orders, it is evident that no ship can go in or out of any French port in the Channel or Bay, without almost a certainty of being captured.

La Seine is a beautiful large frigate, and was the Commodore's ship in the East Indies, in the action that was fought between a squadron of French frigates and the Arrogant and Victorious men of war.

It is reported that La Seine frigate, had dispatches from Tippoo Saib to the Directory on board, which the French Captain deltroyed, when he found there was no prospect of faving the ship.

Capt. Milne, of La Pique, was second lieutenant of the Blanche, when La Pique struck to her early in the year 1795, in the West Indies. During the action all the Blanche's boats were fhot away, but as foon as the Frenchman hawled down his colours, Mr Milne plunged into the fea, followed by a Newfoundland dog still with him, and boarded the prize, into which, in recompence for his valour, he was posted. La Pique was a very old and crazy ship, and her loss is to be estimated as little more than the value of her old iron.

If the accounts of the prisoners captured in La Seine can be credited, the French have a very formidable force in the East-Indies, far greater than the public at large have ever conceived, or even the Government is

It is now faid that Commodore Blanket is to proceed with his fquadron immediately to the Cape of Good Hope, where he is to be reinforced.

The Tigre man of war, of 80 guns, to which Sir Sidney Smith was lately appointed at Portsmouth, is with two other ships of the line, of similar force, ordered to reinforce Admiral Earl St Vincent's squadron. They are to escort a large fleet of storeships, &c. for Gibraltar and Lifbon.

The St Fiorenzo and Triton frigates on Thursday arrived at Plymouth from the coast of France, Captain Gore of the Triton, about a fortnight fince, faw 16 fail of the line (two of which were three-deckers,) fifteen frigates and corvettes, in Brest Road, with their fails bent, and apparently ready for fea.

letter from the English Admiral to the English Minister at Florence. According to other accounts, the English sleet has failed from Gibraltar to the Spanish coast, and taken off Carthagena, four French ships. As this squadron did not find the Toulon fleet, either at Toulon or Genoa, it failed by Corfica and Sardinia in quest of it. The English fleet now confists of 30 thips of the line and frigates.

It is supposed by many, that the Ferrol squadron has for its object the capture of the Lisbon homeward bound Brazil fleet.

The general opinion now prevalent respecting the destination of Euonaparte's squadron, is that it is designed against India. The arrangements made for the desence of our possessions in that part of the globe are, we trust, sufficient to repel every hostile

An account, we are forry to learn, was received last night, of the death of the Hon. James Bruce, fon to the Countels of Elgin, and Member for Marlborough. This Gentleman, the letter states, was drowned in a river in Yorkshire, where he went to bathe. Lady Elgen, and his sister Lady Charlotte Bruce, are incon-folable for their loss.

Monf. Niou, the new French agent for prisoners, has brought over a proposition from the Directory, which he has prefented to the Transport Board in the form of a memorial, for the exchange of one half of the English prisoners now in France, for an equal number of French prilouers in England, man for man The reason impudently assigned for exchanging only one half of the whole number is, that the rest must be kept as an hostage for the good treatment of the French prisoners remaining in England.

On Tuefday, as Lieutenant Millar of the Grace gun boat, and Lieutenant Dawfon, commanding another gun-veffel, were going ashore at Sheerness, they had a dispute, and on Mr Millar stepping from the boat, the other drew his hanger, and ran it through his body, occasioning his instant death. The deceased has left a widow and two young children. Dawfon is in cultody.

We hear that an engineer has projected a plan for a unication between the two great counties of Effex and Kent, by a tunnel or passage at a sufficient depth under the bed of the river Thames from Gravesend to Tilbury; he estimates the whole expence at 15,9551. including 900 yards of tunnelling, relaying the bottom lamps, lamp-irons, ffeam-engine, pipes, and other ne-ceffary machinery. This projected measure is intended to save the passing London Bridge, and thereby a circuit of near 50 miles.

The amount of the national debt, up to the 5th of April laft, is 397,087,674, 13s. 51d. Upwards of 100,000l. in specie was brought by the last packets from Hamburgh and Bremen. The calamitous event which the Directory fo indif-creetly concealed, has at length transpired. Buonaparte, with a crowd of beaux, fell from a balcony at Plombieres! CORN EXCHANGE, JULY 16.

> DUBLIN, JULY 13. SPECIAL COMMISSION.

Yesterday the Court met according to adjournment, Lord Carleton, Baron Smyth, and Justices Crook-SHANK and DAY, prefiding.

HENRY and JOHN SHEARES, Efgrs. were put to the bar, when, after twenty-eight challenges on the part of the prisoners, and eleven on that of the Crown, a Jury was fworn.

The indicement was then read, which flated in Gib stance two counts against the prisoners-compassing the King's death, and adhering to the King's enemies, and to support these a great many overt acts were re-

The case having been opened by Counsellor WEBBES The Rt. Hon. the ATTORNEY GENERAL [Mr. Toler] proceeded to state the whole case. Witnesses were then called. Captain ARMSTRONG being fworn, deposed that he is a Captain in the King's county militia, and knows the prisoners at the bar, he first became acquainted with them on the 10th of May last .- [Here he took out notes, which he faid were taken on the occasion in his own hand-writing.]-That he came on that day to town from the camp at Lehaunston where his company was quartered, and went to the shop of Patrick Byrne. a bookfeller in Grafton-street, who asked him, after following him outlide the street door from the shop, if he had any objection to meet and be introduced to the Mr Sheares the lawyers? Witness replied, he had Was acquainted with Byrne for two years, merely as a bookfeller, whose shop he much frequented being in the habit of going there nearly every day, and purchasing there every political pamphlet that came out. Did not know the reason of Byrne's hining such introduction to him; but went to look for Capt. Clibborn, of his regiment, and his friend, to confult with him on the propriety of this introduction. This was before he fa . he prisoners at the bar. He accordingly

On the Wednesday following the Colonel expressed his surprize that no man called on him, of commending it to him to come to town and find out the reason. Witness called on Wednesday at Bagge freet, between five and fix o'clock; met the prilonen, and was shewn into the library. J. Sheares told him the rifing was then very near, and that he wished to istroduce him to a gentleman with whom he might confult in his absence, as he should be obliged to go to or ganize Cork. Said he had not been able to procure the names he promifed him, but that matters would names he promised him, but that matters would be a ordered that the news of a rising at Cork, flould reach Dublin at a critical time, and that he was waiting for the Executive to fix a day.

Mr Lawlefs, amongst other things, remarked, that the trees at Lehaunstown camp would be extremely convenient for hanging people who did not join them.

Witness being asked as to the nature of the duty to which he was appointed? replied, he was to have ereded a standard, which was to be joined by all those who were previously known to be United Irishmen, none elfe being allowed the option of joining in the attack.

I. Sheares gave him the name of Pat. Linnap, a private in the regiment. Met Connor on Saturday ; delivered the note, and afked him if he knew the men named in it; believes Connor to be now in confinement: called on Sunday at Baggot-Rreet, found the elder Mr Sheares at home, to whom he communicated that ferleant Connor faid he did not know the man mentioned in the note of introduction, at which Sheares expressed his furprife. Here Henry Sheares told witness to be extremely cautious, for that his brother and he escaped Suspicion by their caution, Government believing them to be inactive. John Sheares was made a prisoner the morning after last conversation with witness.

In the course of a long cross-examination by Mr. CURRAN, it came out that the witness on his return from Wexford with a party, met three peafants, with green cockades, on the road—that one was flogged to extort confessions from him until he gave material information as to the position of the rebels; another was banged, and a third was shot, but without the witness's act or advice.

Capt. CLIBBORN, of the King's county militia, corroborated that part of Captain Armstrong's testimomy which referred to him.

Alderman ALEXANDER deposed, that having been fent to the prisoners' house to seize them, and their papers, he found the following proclamation or manifelto, in Mr Sheares' house in a small writing-box in the street in Mr Sheares' house in a small writing-box in the street parlour:

Parsaken! your country is free, and you are about to be avenged. That vile Government which has so long and so cruelly oppressed you, is no note! Some of its most atrocious monters have already paid the forfeit of their lives, and the rest are in our hands. The national flag, the facred green, is at this moment dying over the ruins of despotism; and that capital, which a sew hours patchad witnessed the debauchery, the plots and crimes of your tyrants, is now the citadel of triumphant particulting, and virtue! Arise, then, united sons of Ir land; a rise like a great and powerful people, determined to live free or die. Arm yourselves by every means in your power, and rush like lions on your seas. Consider that for every enemy you disirm, you arm a friend, and thus become doubly powerful. In the easie of liberty inaction is cowardice, and the coward shall forfeit the property he has not the cowarge to protect—Let his arms be strized and trasserred to those gallant spirits who want and will use them. Yes, trishmen! we swear by that Eternal Justice in whose cause you sight, that the brave patriot who furvives the present glorious struggle, and the samily of him who has fallen, or shall fall hereafter in it, shall receive from the hands of a grateful nation an ample recompense out of that property, which the crimes of our enemies have sortient into its hinds, and his nature shall be inscribed on the great national record of the trish revolution, as a glorious example to all posterity; but we likewise swear to punish robbers with death and instany. We also swear that we shall never sheath the tword until every being in the country is referred to those equal rights which the God of unture has given to all men, until an order of things shall be established in which no superious such a chand and talent.

JOHN DWYER, Efq. Secretary to the Lord Chand by war Standin U Grady deposed, that he saw Mr Henry Sheares write very of-ten, had not seen Mr John Sheares write so frequently thinks to the best of his recollection the paper presented to him (the proclamation) is, in the hand-writing of ed to him (the proclamation) is, in the hand-writing of Mr John Sheares, but cannot be certain—believes it to be his hand-writing. Several other witnesses were examined, who proved the papers found in the custody of the prisoners and in their houses.

Mr George Ponsoner opened the case on the part of Mr H. Sheares, and Mr Pr. unker for Mr J. Sheares. Witnesses were then called.

Captain Surrey were then called.

Captain Shirwington, fworn and examined on the part of the priloners, deposed a knowledge of Capt. Armstrong from his childhood—whose uncle he was; that he had told the witness he had been obliged to quit the Somerfet militia, in which he had been, on account of his democratic principles: That in company with witness, he had once expressed himself in these terms, " that is there could be found no other person for the purpose, he would, with pleasure, become the executioner of King George III. and glory in the

In the crofs-examination, this witness confessed that he had been superceded in the commission of the peace for the King's county, for a few days, but could not tell why.

Mr Drought was next examined, who proved that the witness, Captain Armstrong, had in his prefence uttered a disbelief as to the existence of a God, forwards and punishment—afferting that the foul of man became annihilated in death.— The object of this examination was to shew that Mr Armstrong could not be influenced by the moral or teligious obligation of an oath.

The crofs-examination of this gentleman shewed that peace for the King's county, where he then refidedthat he lived a part from his wife—and that about four years fince he had wagered 1000l. that Ireland within that time would have a Republican Government.

Mr CURRAN spoke to evidence for three hours

The Jury retired for about 15 minutes, and then returned a verdict Guilly against both prisoners.

Upon hearing the verdict the prisoners embraced each other and burst into tears, exhibiting a scene of affection and distress which penetrated every person

The Court then adjourned until three o'clock this day, when they met; and the prisoners SHEARES' were ordered to the dock. They respectively claimed the attention of the Court before it proceeded to sentence.

Mr H. SHEARES requested some short respite to fet le the affairs of a large family before he was configned to that fate which awaited him-this unexpected ode of termination to his existence not having permitted him to attend to the necessary arrangement of his affairs, or the final accommodation of his family, obliged him to claim this last favour from the humanity of the

Mr J. SHEARES requested merely an opportunity to eafe the intolerable burden of a mind labouring under unmerited calumny, in one point alone.—He did not mean either to impeach the laws which adjudged him, the jury which condemed him, or the Court which had tried him-a Court from which he experienced repeat ed acts of indulgence—but with his last breath he would appeal to that God from whom he expected mercy, and at whose awful tribunal he was so shortly destined to appear, for the truth of his last affertion—that no fentiment of abhorred iniquity was ever more foreign from his mind, than that with which he was charged, of determining to give no quarter to fuch of the army as should be taken opposed to them—if submitting—or that he should have selt reluctance to extend mercy to the submission of any class, or a suppliant foe. He hoped that this declaration, at so awful an hour, would make an indelible impression on the hearts of others make an indelible impression on the hearts of others, and turn them from any ferocious or sanguinary plans which they might have fatally adopted. With the prospect of the grave at his feet, and all the solemnities which can render the last hour awful, he hoped the Court would too believe him—he hoped his countrymen would believe him—he knew his God would believe him .- He had no other favour to afte for himfeli -but, turning to his brother, he in a most pathetic manner entered into his family affairs, and made a fupplication for fome respite. There was scarce a dry eye in Court, and Lord Carleton, in his address to them, quickened the fensibility which they had excited. He pronounced the painful fentence incident to high treason with all its terrible accompaniments.

The Court adjourned to Monday.

The father of the Meff. SHEARES was a respectable banker in Cork, where he acquired a large fortune, and was once mayor of that city. HENRY SHEARES was last war a lieutenant in the army, and in 1783 was reduced to half pay, which he held to the present time. After his regiment was reduced, he turned his attention to the law.—Both brothers were resident in France when the king was put to death; after which they returned to Dublin, and joined the United Irish-

DUBLIN, July 14.
The two brothers Sheares, were this day execut ed at 3 o'clock.

Wednefday night about 12 o'clock, a banditti attacked the house of Mr CHARLES WADE, near Lusk, and enquiring for Mr JAMES LAWLESS, a member of Cap-tain BAKER'S corps of yeoman cavalry, demanded his arms, which he helitating to deliver, was informed from without, that if he delivered them without refistance, they would do him no injury, but if he resisted, they would fet fire to the hagard, and put every person in the house to death; upon which Ma Lawless handed out his pistols, which they no sooner got than they in the most inhuman manner, shot him through the heart, when he expired instantly, upon which the miscreant went off. This banditti had been to the same house went on. I his banditti had been to the lame house the two nights before, and demanded money, but it feems their object was to murder Mr Lawlefs, as they went off quietly, not finding him at home; but told his uncle they would come again, which promife fatally they were too punctual in keeping.

This morning, the Angus fencibles, with their camp

This morning, the Angus renciples, with their camp equipage, arrived in town.

All the roads leading from the city are infested by large bodies of the rebels—every one of the mail coaches, not attended by a strong escort of horses and foot, has been seized and destroyed by the rebels.

It is said that a very large body of rebels have such as the work of the work o ceeded in effecting a decent from the Wicklow hills across the county Kildare into Fingal, the northern part of the county of Dublin.

Four of the Reay fencibles, who had walked out from Kilcock to a village, were furrounded by a number of people, who feemed to iffue from the potatoe-grounds.—Two of them were inhumanly murdered, and the others with difficulty escaped. As soon as the account reached Kilcock, 50 of the Reay fencibles, and about the same number of other corps there, with some dragoons, fet off for the spot. The rebels made no relistance; three of the ringleaders were immediately tried, convicted, and executed. The others were to ken prisoners. Nothing can exceed their wretched fi tuation. Without food, raiment, or habitation, they exhibited the most forlorn picture of human woe. Diftress had made many of them frantic; and two (out of the three who fuffered on the fpot) passed into eternity with dreadful imprecations on the heads of their leaders.

The rebels are mostly collected within the circuit of 12 or 20 miles round Dublin, encamped on barren land. Their numbers are daily recruited from all parts of the country. Numbers of men fervants in Dublin have deferted their mafters houses, and are thought to have joined the rebels, and four foldiers have deferted from Lehanstown camp, and are suspected of having joined the rebels. Seven of the 15th dragoons have been brought to town prisoners suspected of intending to defert.

It is impossible to say any thing decisive as to the peace of the north, the general belief is, that another attempt will be made by the rebels, but they cannot have any prospect of success; perty thefts are committed every night, notwithstanding the many examples that have been made of hanging, transporting, &c. Diffenting Clergy have been more active in the rebel-lion than any other class of people, feveral of them have been executed, and many more are likely to fuffer.-A young man who was tutor in a gertleman's he also had been superceded from the commission of the family in this neighbourhood, much esseemed, and holdand it is believed he will be hanged. The miftrels of the fame family has allo been obliged to diffull two of her female fervants for being United Irishwomen, one of whom, when the rebels lately made an attack on the house, knelt down and prayed that God Almighty might be their Captain. The rebels plundered the house of arms, fortunately the valuable articles were removed the previous day.—The rebels were conducted by a man fervant who formerly belonged to the family. Although many houses were broken into, yet the re-bels did not destroy them; as they expected to become the possessions and proprietors.—When Mr Paice's house was entered by the rebels, their chief told the fervants that if they continued to do their business well, he would retain them in his service; he then ordered the cook to prepare dinner every day for 16 persons, and desired the hounds might be aired as he intended to hungain a few days.

The fouth of Ireland is still in a state of great turbulence—the rebels hold out in expectation of receiving affiltance from the French.

JULY 15.
It is with regret we observe appearances of the re bellion ftill extending. Seven expresses of the ring the course of last night, bringing information of three encampments of the rebels between Dublin and this place. One is 12 miles north of Dublin, near the Man of War Inn, faid to confift of 15,000 men. Another is at Ardree, of 200 men, I have not learnt where the third is lituated. It is reported to-day, that the Ar-dree camp has been attacked, and the rebels routed with

An express arrived here for troops to be sent to Ballymena, but we could not spare them.

In the mail coach which was robbed coming from Dublin, a young gentleman who belonged to the Attorney corps of Dublin, was a passenger. The rebels stripped him of his uniform, and immediately called a Court Martial to try him. One parry was for hanging, and another for shooting him. While they were consulting, an alarm was given, which made them break up their camp, and the young gentleman, in the confusion, got hold of a green jacket, which he hastily put on, and this favoured his escape so that he made good his way back to Dublin.

The other passengers were robbed of all their money, watches, and the mail with its contents was burnt before them. They however got safe to Newry.

The gloom of yesterday is considerably dispelled. Intelligence is received that the Sutherland sensibles, commanded by Colonel WEMYSS, completely routed the rebels, who fled with great precipitation, but were met by General MYRKS, who had left Dublin with a body of forces. The rebels then changed their rout, and retreated in much confusion into the county of Cavan. Great numbers were killed in the pursuit. They had come from the county of Wicklow into the county of Meath, but not a man of that district joined

Tuefday, the ROYAL EDINBURGH VOLUNTEER LIGHT DRAGOONS were reviewed in Burntsfield Links
by his Excellency General Sir RALPH ABERCROMEY, attended by his fuit. The various evolutions of this corps were performed with fo much promptitude and ability, that the General expressed in very warm terms his approbation of their performance.

When the above review finished, the first regiment of the ROYAL EDINBURGH VOLUNTEER INFANTEY took the ground and were also reviewed by his Excel-lency. The very high state of discipline in that corps needs no encomium. Their evolutions and firings this day were done in the fame masterly manner as have formerly distinguished them. The General expressed in strong terms his approbation of their conduct.

On Wednesday the 11th cur. Licutenant Colorel SKINSER, accompanied by Lord Douglas, Lord Licutenant of the county, inspected the AREKOATH VOLUNEERS. The corps went through the manuel exercise, evolutions and firings, much to the fausfaction of the inspecting officer; and he was pleased to express hintless highly pleased with their appearance, and folder-like behaviour.

On Saturday last, the Roxner customs Yeomanan.

INFERNESS, You's 12 1798.

Honourable mention was lately made in the Caledonian Mercury and other papers, of the credit which the discipline, order, and good conduct of the 79th regiment reflects on Colonel Macrouat, Major MacLean, and the other gentlemen of that respectable corps, during the whole of the time they lay at Inverness. In addition to which well merited commendation, the kirk-fession of Inverness feel it their duty to express publicly their grateful acknowledgements for the charitable donation of five pounds Sterling, made by Colonel Macroual, in the name of the regiment, to the poor of the town, and given by the Colonel to one of the elders attending the offering on the Sabbath day immediately preceding the departure of the last division of the regiment from Inverness.

On the 10th July, the above liberal charity was reported to the kirk-lession:

The FARM IN EAST-LOTHIAN.

To be LET for such time as may be agreed on, and entered to at Whitsunday still.

THE FARM of MORHAM MAINS. The centre of this farm is within two English miles of Haddington, it lies well together, has every advantage that can arise from roads, and confists of above 500 English arres. There are besides, 82 acres under tack for nine years, which may then be added to it. These lands are all inclosed, mostly new limed, and in no instance since they were sined, has more than one white crop been taken without a fallow, or green crop intervening. From flance lince they were limed, has more than one white crop been taken without a fallow, or green crop intervening. From the nature of the foil they have never milled wheat when tolerably prepared. For the encouragement of intending offerers, a fufficient extent of fallow and grafa, with the dung on the farm at the entry, will be given for nothing; and the lands being in the natural possession of the proprietor, the common highries of an outgoing tenait will in every respect be avoided, so that this curry will give advantages rarely met with.

The Dwelling-house is new, and fit to accommodate a large family. The offices, mill, and garden are suitable to the farm.

Offers may be given in to, or any information obtained from the proprietor, at Morham, between and the aft of September.

Offers if required will be kept feerer.

AN EXTENSIVE FARM IN MID LOTHIAM:

To be LET for 19 years, and entered to immediately,

THE FARM of FORDELL, containing upwards of 300 acres all arable, inclofed and fubdivided into proper inclosures, fituated within three miles of Dalkeith and four of Muffelburgh, at both of which places there are good weekly markets, and where plenty of dung can at all times be procured.

The fituation of the farm is in all other refpects extremely eligible, there being an inerhauftible line quarry in the grounds that has been rendered level free, which the tenant will have right to for fix years, and there is abundance of coals in the immediate neighbourhood. The farm fleading and offices are large and commodious, and the house fuitable for the residence of a genteel family.

As it was only lately that the present tenant resolved to quit possession of tropping, and the present reop laid down with proper grafs seeds. The incoming tenant will not only have the benefit of these improvements, but he will receive a proportion of ground prepared for turnip and summer sallow. He may also have the stock of horses, plonghs, carts, &c. prescutly on the farm, with a considerable quantity of dung, and likewise the erop now fown, at a valuation, of that a more tavourable entry to an incoming tenant is searcely to be met with.
